

DEAD SEA NAVIGATORS

New 3 track single "Destroyer" released 19th May

Their last single release saw their track Concierge featured in the 2 million selling game Alien: Isolation, which won a BAFTA for Audio Achievement.

Destroyer sees them explore deeper waters with more layers of guitars than previous releases.

Blending the melancholy of afterhours piano with distorted bass, analogue electronica and downtempo rhythm, Dead Sea Navigators mix a dark cocktail of theatrical indie/lounge for the entertainment of late night drifters.

Like drunken confessions, their songs veer from low-spoken intimacy to growling anger and resentment at the drop of a glass. These are the tales of closing time, and the cabaret of characters that perform within.

The transatlantic trio originally got together and gigged on the London scene, but now they write and record in both Vancouver and London. The band are: Steph (vocals, piano/synths), Nik (Bass) and Claire (Drums).

"They sound bloody huge" (Artrocker, live review)

"A very rewarding listen. Sometimes it's worth going into uncharted territory."
(Flush the Fashion, EP review)
